Morgan, Fellow of the British Academy and Overseas Fellow of the Royal Dutch Academy of Arts and Sciences, is Professor of History and Philosophy of Economics at the London School of Economics and University of Amsterdam. The World in the Model: How Economists Work And Think ... Thus Morgan puts a special emphasis on the world in the model- the fact that models have an existence of their own, and that modeling has become the thing that economists do - and the model in the world- the way models affect the world, sometimes being explicitly used in economic activity, such as in the pricing of options or in the design of auctions. A World of Models: Review of Mary S. Morgan, "The World in ... "The World in the Model argues that economic models are not merely or mainly representations of phenomena; they are flexible tools that configure the domain, constitute its objects, and display salient features, thereby facilitating thinking about economics. The World in the Model: How Economists Work And Think ... Mary Morgan, LSE Professor of History and Philosophy of Economics, speaks to us about her book The World in the Model: How Economists Work and Think and how the once prose-heavy discipline founded by Adam Smith has been transformed by maths and modelling. Book Review: The World in the Model: How Economists Work ... During the last two centuries, the way economic science is done has changed radically: it has become a social science based on mathematical models in place of words. This book describes and analyses that change - both historically and philosophically - using a series of case studies to illuminate the nature and the implications of these changes.
